New Social Studies Course

Grades seven and ten in all schools in the province of Alberta will be involved in an experimental program revolving around a revised social studies course. The Curriculum Branch of the Department of Education will start the program in these two classes in the fall of 1969. Provincial-wide implementation of the program will occur in grades one through twelve in September, 1970.

The ultimate aim of the new Alberta Social Studies program is to produce valuable citizens who participate in social and civic activities. The course is designed to develop students who will make rational decisions on logical grounds.

Social Studies is now compulsory in grade ten, and grade seven, being the lowest junior high grade, made the two classes the logical choices for conducting the experimental programs. The existing grade twelve optional social studies course will be altered only slightly as it has proved very effective in the past, emphasizing modern day problems. This relates very closely to the new Social Studies course.

Two major changes in the course will be an emphasis on Canadianism, and a development of an awareness and appreciation of the student's Canadian identity; also emphasis will be on how to make the future world a more desirable place to live.

The course covers three areas. The department lists these in order of importance: values or attitudes, skills and knowledge.

One-third of all social studies will be devoted to discussion of problems that are of interest to students. The topics of study chosen for grades one to twelve, because of close interest to the students are:

Grade 1, Family Life; Grade 2, Neighborhoods; Grade 3, Comparative Communities; Grade 4, Alberta; Grade 5, Canada; Grade 6, Historical Roots of Man; Grade 7, Man, Technology and Culture; Grade 8, Non-Western Societies; Grade 9, Western Society; Grade 10, Canadian Problems; Grade 11, World Problems and Issues; Grade 12, World Problems and Issues.

Over 500,000 Canadians successfully completed Red Cross water safety courses last year.

Campaign 1969

The nation-wide Spring Car Check campaign is aimed at preventing accidents by alerting drivers to the need for proper vehicle maintenance and is timed for the big increase in traffic once the roads are clear.

The Canada Safety Council, sponsor of the campaign, asks Canada's drivers to have their cars checked thoroughly for mechanical malfunctions.

Drivers are also urged to keep in mind the symptoms of mechanical hazards and remain alert to them every time they drive.

There's no guarantee that something won't go wrong even after compulsory car checks in those provinces which have them.

The Council, in particular its Vehicle Safety Committee, strongly favors and strives for uniform car check legislation across the country.

Up to now, six provinces have legislation on the books setting up compulsory auto inspections. The laws are effective to the extent funds and facilities are made available to enforce them.

Inspections in British Columbia, Manitoba, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island apply to all vehicles and are by far the most effective. New Brunswick's compulsory check is effective as of April 1st.

Compulsory inspection is on a selective basis in Ontario and Quebec. Motorists flagged into portable inspection lanes are required by law to have their vehicles checked at a garage if so directed. These lanes operate between May and October.

In addition, used cars in Ontario must be checked on the 22 most important operating mechanisms at a registered dealer or service station before they can be resold.

The Car Check campaign is most important in those provinces with no compulsory programs.

Even where the checks are a must, the driver should remain vigilant for possible malfunctions.

There are clear symptoms of serious car disorders which every motorist should know. During the Car Check campaign the Canada Safety Council will identify these symptoms while stressing that this knowledge should not be taken as a substitute for a thorough garage check-up.

The aim is to make drivers aware of the most dangerous vehicle malfunctions.

Statistics from a number of sources indicate that about one out of ten accidents is caused by vehicle faults. A big majority of these can be prevented by proper maintenance which is in the best interests of motorists, their families and other passengers they may transport.

The Canada Safety Council requests the support of drivers, and everybody concerned with traffic safety, in the Car Check campaign so that driving will be safer this spring and the rest of the year for all Canadian motorists.

Letters to the EditorThe Editor,
The Coleman Journal,
Coleman, Alberta.

Dear Sir:

We the undersigned, would like to inform the public that we have purchased the trophies that will be presented to the Coleman Bantam Hockey Club (commonly known as Pep's Greyhounds) which was coached by Kenneth Taje.

1—The Savor - Kenneth Taje.

2—The Most Valuable Player - Pete Youschuk.

3—No Penalties - A. Youschuk.

4—Hot Shot - Edward Taje.

5—Spark Plug - Walter Mazur.

6—Most Goals - Mel Taje.

It is interesting to know that five of these donors have no children playing in Minor Hockey. It is also good to know that the purchase of these trophies is not a one-man operation.

I have been entrusted with the money to spend on this particular team and I feel that the public should know who the people are that made these six trophies possible. These trophies are based on five years of observation.

MEL TAJE.

Almost 400,000 patients in Canadian hospitals will receive transfusions of whole blood and blood products this year through the Canadian Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service.

The Paint Puzzle—
Exteriors

The exteriors of houses may be roughly classed into two types of construction. The first is masonry such as brick, concrete block or stucco. The second is all forms of wood, such as clapboard siding, plywood and similar materials.

With the advent of acrylic paints (synthetic resin widely used as a water reducible paint) you now have a choice of enduring finishes for masonry surfaces, but remember that if there is a poor paint on the surface now, the paint used to cover it will only last as long as the original paint job. For wood surfaces, the first choice is still unquestionably linseed oil house paint.

In Canada recently there have appeared latex - based exterior paints for use on wood. They have an immediate response because they could be applied under poorer atmospheric conditions than conventional oil paints. They also do not blister from internal moisture problems as readily as oil-based paints. Here again, however, you should consult your paint dealer, since the major paint companies are gradually acquiring files of consumer complaints on the failure of the latex paints to outweigh the advantages of conventional oil-based paints.

Where the exterior of the house is part masonry and part wood, be very careful before you apply so-called self-cleaning paints to the wood. Self-cleaning paints are normally those which "chalk" readily, consequently after a heavy rain, the chalking action cleans the wood (painted) surface but deposits the residue on your masonry or brick, causing unsightly stains.

When a house or cottage is entirely wood, the self-cleaning paints have a definite function. Only if your shrubs and bushes are landscaped against the house will there likely be some spotting on them from the self-cleaning paint.

Epoxies and Urethanes
These are chiefly used on wooden floors as coatings for high traffic areas. They are also good on furniture, boats or anywhere their high resistance to abrasion makes their relative high cost a sound investment.

The above was condensed from an article appearing in the Canadian Consumer. If you have any further questions regarding paint please do not hesitate to contact me.

New Society Slogan:
Cancer Can Be Beaten

A positive, more hopeful approach to public education on cancer was adopted in Ottawa by delegates to the November meetings of the Canadian Cancer Society. It came in the form of a new slogan: "Cancer Can Be Beaten" — and seven safeguards to fight the disease.

"The safeguards are meant to dispel the fear which our surveys have shown is largely responsible for keeping people from going to a doctor," said Dr. Ruth E. Alison, Chairman of the Society's National Education Committee.

The Society hopes that, by informing the public about cancer, these fears will become negligible.

"The purpose of an education program about cancer is to prevent people from getting the disease wherever possible, and, when that is impossible, to motivate them to seek early treatment. Only by knowing the facts about cancer can we develop a hopeful, realistic attitude which dispels paralyzing fear and fosters appropriate action," said Dr. Alison. She is senior staff physician at the Princess Margaret Hospital in Toronto.

Of patients polled in 1968, 81 per cent said fear was the leading cause of delay in consulting a doctor when cancer was suspected.

The Society's seven safeguards may do away with these fears altogether. They are:

Have a regular medical check-up, don't smoke cigarettes, practice regular breast self examination, have your dentist check for abnormal conditions in the mouth, have a regular Pap test, arrange with your doctor for a bowel examination, avoid excessive exposure to sunlight.

Dr. Alison's committee will go one step further in promoting the slogan by developing the themes: cancer can be prevented, cancer can be cured and cancer patients can be helped.

The provincial cancer campaign gets underway on March 31st with business and residential area canvassing. Alberta's objective this year is $616,700.

IN ORDER TO PROMULGATE reports of meetings of various organizations, it would help if a press correspondent was appointed by each one to send in the news. It is impossible for a reporter to attend all the meetings, therefore co-operation would be appreciated, and at the same time publicity would be assured for the meetings.

Card of Thanks

We would like to express our sincere thanks to Dr. Aiello, nurses and staff of the C. N. P. hospital, those who sent flowers and cards, the pallbearers and to all those who helped in any way during our recent sad bereavement.

how come?

Often a fortune has to be squeezed into a tube of toothpaste—or for that matter, any product—before it can be sold.

There's a lot of money for product research... for consumer testing... for manufacturing... for packaging... and finally for promotion to tell you the advantages of the product. The product you eventually see in an ad has taken months, maybe years, and often millions of dollars to get there.

Does advertising reduce the costs from millions to 79¢? Of course not. But, without it, manufacturers could not afford to invent new products or improve on old ones... because advertising tells enough people about the product to make mass production possible and practical.

So if your teeth are a little brighter, and you're spending less money on dental care than last year... that's the point we're trying to get across: Advertising helps good things happen.

Fire Crimes

(By A. E. Bridges, Alberta Fire Commissioner)
Part of the reason for high fire losses in Alberta is the wilful lack of information and knowledge of fire regulations or fire by-laws.

Fires are in fact caused by fire crimes, some of them wilful and some otherwise. Ignorance of the law is held to be no excuse but on the other hand, greater efforts should be made to get the laws into circulation and if possible, by some means to stimulate inquiry about what is required and what are the penalties for breaches of fire laws.

We quickly become conversant with traffic safety laws due to police control and traffic tickets and the lessons can be costly. No doubt more charges against persons for violation of fire laws would focus public attention to them.

Fire safety laws and by-laws cover broadly the areas of heating equipment, fuels, processing, handling and storage of flammable liquids, solids or vapors; building construction to assure safe use and occupancy, fire alarm and fire protection equipment.

When in doubt about fire laws, consult your local fire chief or the Provincial Fire Commissioner's office.
